Union Co., Oregon, Oct. 29th, 1865.

Editor Oregonian:

The prospects in this district are still decidedly in the ascendancy, and constantly improving. New discoveries are being made almost daily and in extent and richness fulfilling the highest expectations and comprising lodes of both gold and silver. The U. S. Grant Quartz Mining Company own nine lodes in connection with this mill, five of which are already demonstrated to be rich, and will be thoroughly developed during this fall and coming winter. This mill is of four stamp capacity and in connection with two arastras will enable the company to fully develop their extensive interests without the accumulation of that expense usually attending mining operations of the kind.

The Gem of the Mountain, Buck and Rooster lodes have already been sufficiently worked to give the proprietors unbounded confidence in them.

The lodes convenient to Eagle City, are principally owned by the Humboldt Quartz Mining Company, and the Superintendent, Joel Slack, informs me that the company have entered into reliable negotiations for the early introduction of two or more mills to do custom work, and which will be located at or near Eagle City as that point furnishes the facilities of both wood and water, and lies convenient to the Golden Sun, Gem of the Mountain, Western Deposit, Occidental, Cariboo, and other lodes. The margin here for custom mills is good and excellent sites obtain adjacent timber and water, and convenient to the mines.

The Mountain Queen, Western Deposit and Golden Sun are exclusively gold bearing, and not silver as stated in your local columns a short time since, the mistake being made no doubt, on account of their close proximity to silver bearing lodes.

Mr. Shields, the Superintendent of the Pioneer Company, has such unbounded confidence in the extent and quality of the Empire ledge that he proposes to take out hundreds of tons of rock the coming winter, preparatory to the establishment of a mill early next spring, and operations on the ledge will be fully inaugurated this month. An assessment of one hundred dollars to the share has recently been levied by this company, the payment of which is so arranged that the requisite amount will soon be in the hands of the treasurer to push the enterprise forward without delay. Some three or four hundred dollars have already been spent on this lode, and with results in the highest degree satisfactory to the stockholders whilst numerous assays made of the rock are equally encouraging.

In Hog 'em precinct the developing operations are also being extended. Mr. Thompson has a five stamp mill in process of erection, and which will be in operation this month, and also proposes to bring in machinery for another mill of extended capacity early in the spring, provided the mines continue to be developed during the winter. Mr. Bear & Co sent me some very nice specimens from Howe, Rhining and other ledes situated in the above named precincts, and which are of promising value and will be developed at an early day. We anticipate a visit to Hog'em precinct soon, and will give its resources and prospects in detail in our next communication from this district.

During the early part of this fall Mr. G. F. Packwood and Joseph V. Hall explored the neighboring range of Granite Mountains lying to the eastward from here, and discovered there several lodes of auriferous silver, the average ore of which when subjected to a test at the hands of a competent assayer, yielded the fabulous sum of from twelve to twenty-two hundred dollars to the ton. The casing of these ores is the finest quality of marble, and the ore itself, is simply what is mineralogically termed "electrum" or native alloy of gold and silver, found principally in Mexico and noted for its richness. We have tested this newly discovered ore in the crucible, and with results fully corroborating the correctness of the assays above referred to. We state that which is eligible to mathematical demonstration and base not our opinions on supposition or report.

The great drawback on the development of the mineral resources of this camp has been, and is to a certain extent now, the pressure of a bad reputation. On the strength of vague report based on supposition, hundreds rushed into this precinct early last spring while the hills were still covered with snow, and infatuated with the idea of growing rich in a day. They ran hither and thither, making a short spasmodic effort here and another there, and failing to realize their extravagant expectations, they left the country misrepresenting, slandering and cursing it wherever they went, until the impression went forth that Eagle District was the chief of humbugs, and utterly destitute in mineral resource. Such has been the fate of this district and such was the fate of the mining regions adjacent Pike's Peak, which now rival the richest mineral regions of Mexico, and in a like manner is this region destined to rival, if not excel the richest mineral localities on this coast.

The development of mineral resource here will soon justify the extensive introduction of mills or smelting furnaces which follow development of mines as a necessary consequence.

Dr. E. A. Stockton, of La Grande, owns extensive interests here, and will start for New York on the 1[illegible]th of this month for the purpose of making arrangements for the extensive working of his interest here early next spring.

We will forward you item from La Grande next week. W. S.

AGRICULTURE AND INSECT LIFE.—Our agriculture is in danger of local if not general destruction through the multiplication and ravages of devastating [illegible] too numerous and too disgusting or contemptible to be singly exterminated, yet whose conjoint attacks upon us are more formidable and destructive than those of any human adversary. Our grim [illegible] dreaded and loathed the Hessian soldiers brought over to subdue or slaughter them, but what were their devastation to those of the Hessian fly? The frogs of Egypt, the clouds of locusts that often strip the southern and eastern coasts of the Mediterranean bare of green leaf, begin to be paralleled by the grasshopper pests of our remote prairies. The midge, the weevil, the [illegible] bug, the fly, are rendering the cultivation of our great bread staple every year more precarious and its yield more and more meagre. Caterpillars and other vermin infest, injure and ultimately destroy our fruit trees. Grubs and wire worms [illegible] our seed in the ground, bugs are equally pernicious to our melons, and it is now pretty well settled that the potato rot and the [illegible] are the work of animals, but none the less destructive insects. The improvement and careful use of the microscope will doubtless prove in time that scores of mysterious and inscrutable diseases, to which not only plants but animals fall a prey, have a kindred origin. And these devastations are palpably increasing in extent and mischief with every recurring year. We must arrest and repel them, or the farmer's vocation will be ruined, and thousands perish for lack of food.

THE JEFF. DAVIS TREASURE AGAIN.—Some weeks ago, a statement was telegraphed from Washington concerning the treasure taken with the capture of Davis, showing that the amount carried off by the ex-chief of all the "Confeds" was not such a great sum after all. A dispatch [illegible]

[illegible] captured among Jefferson Davis's [illegible] has been counted at the Treasury Department. It amounts to [illegible] in gold [illegible] coinage, $8,822 in silver, 116 pounds of foreign [illegible] gold and silver (value not estimated) and [illegible] of silver, weighing over [illegible] pounds each, the estimated value of which is $100 each. The value of the [illegible] $100,000.

[illegible] IN THE VOLCANO DISTRICT.—Mr. [illegible] brought down from Volcano [illegible] that the surface [illegible] promises [illegible] In the way of opening [illegible] amount of [illegible] assays of surface rock are equal to anything yet found [illegible] width of ledges. The [illegible] feet wide, and has assayed $80 per ton. A tunnel is now being run into this ledge with the purpose of working it with the [illegible] mill. The John Huntoon is a ledge which comes above the ground twelve feet wide and shows a superior character of rock. The "State of Maine" is fifteen feet wide and assays $300 per ton. These are certainly good indications. [illegible]

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 14, 1865.

Negro Suffrage

In some of the States, particularly in those where the blacks are very numerous, the question of negro suffrage is evidently an engrossing feature of politics. Not so in Oregon. This question is not now, and probably never can become a matter of paramount importance here. We are far distant from the great body of our colored population. Few negroes reside within this State and it is not at all probable that many more will come. For these reasons and others of a kindred nature which readily suggest themselves, this State can have little to do with the general question of negro suffrage, especially since under our political system the other States who have or may hereafter be vitally interested in this subject have the undeniable right to decide the whole matter for themselves as they see fit without any interference from us. Recognizing these facts all thinking men at once perceive the uselessness of setting the whole State in an uproar by discussing with vehement warmth a question that will be in no wise affected by any action we may take. Had the people of Oregon the power to decide the general question of negro suffrage, then it would be worth their while to agitate the subject, but as they have not, they would show no very great wisdom by engaging in heated discussions that can avail nothing.

According to the President's plan of reconstruction, the right of prescribing what persons shall enjoy the elective franchise in the South rests with those States alone. But while we conceive this as the true theory, we do not deny the right of any State to enfranchise its black citizens, nor do we object to its giving them the ballot if it shall see proper to do so. We hold to the doctrine expressed by our late lamented President in his letter to Governor Hahn, of Louisiana, when he said that as a matter of justice to loyal colored men, and as a means of safety to the Government, it would not be improper to give the more intelligent of the blacks, particularly those who had fought for the Union, the right to vote. Again, in his letter to General Wadsworth, Mr Lincoln spoke similarly. These letters may be said to have embodied his ideas on the question of negro suffrage. The sentiments they contain not only have the sanction of the great name of their author, but they also fully accord with every true conception of justice, equity, and right. It is to be observed, however, that Mr Lincoln did not desire to force the adoption of this measure upon any State. In his letter to the Governor of Louisiana, he spoke of the elective franchise as a thing belonging to that State to regulate for itself. He thought it would not be improper for Louisiana to give the ballot to her loyal and intelligent blacks, provided she should be willing to do so. With this view of Mr Lincoln, our own opinions accord.

President Johnson's views as regards this subject are identical with those held by Mr Lincoln. He does not pronounce against negro suffrage. He does not oppose it per se. He makes no objection to the enfranchisement of the blacks in any State which may choose to give them the privileges of electors. Indeed it has often been stated that he believes the right of suffrage should be enjoyed by the intelligent of all classes. Hence those who say they differ nothing from President Johnson, and at the same time take the extreme Copperhead view of the suffrage question—namely, that a State has no right to bestow the elective franchise on whom it pleases, and that in no imaginable case should colored men, even though very intelligent, be given the right to vote—either betray an ignorance of the subject or are willing to appear inconsistent, provided they can only stand on the popular side.

On this coast negroes have never voted. Indeed there are none, or almost none of them here to exercise this franchise even if these States should offer it to them. We are opposed to the plan of bringing a multitude of them to Oregon in order that the question of their enfranchisement may be discussed and this right awarded them. For this State, negro suffrage will never be a practical question unless we take pains to cause the blacks to come hither. This the Copperheads may do, as they once voted for their introduction here but we never shall. We are satisfied with the present laws of this State as regards the right to use the ballot. Let them stand, say we, as they are. And while our own laws suit us very well we are also willing for other States to have such as suit them. We are not opposed to negro suffrage in States where it exists and has always existed nor shall we raise a furious outcry against Georgia or Connecticut if either see proper to give the ballot to colored citizens. Oregon will look after her own affairs, and we think other States will do likewise.

COAL NEAR OLDS' FERRY.—An extensive coal bed has lately been discovered about a mile and a half from Olds' Ferry on Snake river. The discovery was made in the hill a few feet from the river bank. We have seen, and have now in our possession, several specimens of this coal. It appears to be of excellent quality. Some of it was placed on the fire, when it burned with a flame which gave unmistakable proofs of genuine bituminous coal. It is found encased in a shale or indurated clay. Several distinct veins have been opened which take a convergent direction into the hill. This discovery is a most fortunate one, bringing coal to light in a locality where it is most needed. It will prove of great use next summer in means for the navigation of Snake river above Olds' Ferry.

In the year 1865, for the first time in a quarter of a century liberty of speech, personal security and equal protection are enjoyed alike by all citizens in every part of the country. Never until now did perfect freedom, even for white men reign in the South. The compunctionless despotism which slavery built up on the ruins of the liberties of both races, is finally broken down. The blacks are free from bondage and the whites are delivered from the not less complete and galling tyranny of a perverted public opinion. Behold the happy results of our late mighty struggle!

OWYHEE CINNABAR.—We were shown yesterday by a gentleman direct from Owyhee some very fine specimens of cinnabar which came from a mine some eight or nine miles southeast of Silver City. This ore contains from seventy to ninety per cent. of pure metal, and is found in inexhaustible quantities in the locality spoken of. It will add another to the many sources of wealth which exist in the upper country.

Several [illegible] in Missouri have been placed under arrest for refusing to take the oath of loyalty. The Confederate Democrat complains that "none but Catholics and Southern Methodists are subject to these official outrages." We don't know how that is, but if the fact be such as the Democrat alleges, it shows that none but the clergymen designated are disloyal.

IMPORTANT CASE.—In the case of Walls and others against [illegible] and others, before Judge Kelly at Oswego some days since, an injunction restraining [illegible] and treasurer from [illegible] what is called the Portman [illegible] was granted. It is alleged by plaintiffs that the Portman is only a continuation of the Hays & Ray lot. The property at stake amounts to millions.—[illegible]

Talleyrand once took the conceit out of a young coxcomb in Paris where he chanced to be dining. "My mother was renowned for her beauty," said the dandy. "She was certainly the handsomest woman I ever saw." "Ah!" taking his measure at once, "it was your father that was not good looking!"

Letter from Lewiston

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

LEWISTON, I. T., Nov. 5th, 1865.

It has happened that my engagements have prevented me from writing for some weeks past. In fact my location has been such as to forbid my having access to many news items save such as pertained to my own immediate camp.

I left Florence on the 26th ult., and arrived here on the 4th inst. At the time of leaving, the ground in the Florence basin was covered with snow to the depth of ten inches. I found about one foot of snow until coming out. No snow at Slate creek and but little between there and this place.

THE FLORENCE QUARTZ LEADS.

In my last I made no mention of the quartz leads recently discovered in the region of Florence. Since then I have been employed at [illegible] work in the vicinity of [illegible] and I am [illegible] that [illegible] which were at first [illegible] the prospecting and [illegible] upon the leads which have been made have been attended with [illegible] favorable results. Of the Florence [illegible] leads which have [illegible] so far, I may mention the Liddle & Harper's Lone Star, Hunt, North Idaho, [illegible] and Mammoth. All these save the North Idaho and Mammoth are situated upon the north side of Salmon river.

The first and most prominent of these leads is the Liddle & Harper, of which I wrote you what information I then had in a former letter. The first company organized upon this lead under the name of the Florence Gold and Silver Mining Company, [illegible] fourteen hundred feet, commencing near the point of the first discovery and extending in a north westerly direction. The next westerly extension is six hundred feet. The next one thousand feet, following which are several locations by companies and individual claimants, amounting in all to three thousand feet. On this western extension the ore had not been uncovered but in two places beyond the boundary of the Florence Company. The Florence Company have sunk a shaft about twenty feet in depth and have taken out about fifty tons of ore. They are now running a tunnel for the purpose of striking the vein at the depth of eighty feet from the surface. They will continue operations upon the vein during the winter, and with a fair prospect of extracting some three hundred tons of ore before the first of June.

The first eastern extension upon this lead embraces four hundred feet and is known as the Merritt & Cleary extension. The vein upon this extension has been uncovered at small intervals of distance, through the entire extent of the claims. The vein is from twenty inches to two feet in width and the ore as good as that of the Florence Company. So far as I know it is not the intention of this Company to work the vein before next spring.

The next eastern extension is that of the Nez Perce Gold and Silver Mining Company and embraces 1,200 feet. The vein has also been uncovered by this Company at short intervals throughout their entire claims and discloses itself in the widest place about thirty four inches and in the narrowest about 14 inches. The ore retains all the characteristics of that in the Florence and by assay made at this place proves to be of equal value.

This Company will employ from four to six men during the winter in extracting rock by drifting on the vein. These claims are admirably located for extracting ore with ease and rapidity and I should not be surprised to learn that they exceeded any other Company on the lead in the quantity of ore produced the coming winter.

The next Eastern extension embraces six hundred feet and is known as the Combs & Neastor extension. The vein on these claims had not been uncovered and no efforts made to do so. A part of the claim was in dispute, which was in a fair way for adjustment at the time of my leaving camp. The next eastern extension embraces six hundred feet, and is known as the Hannegan & Co. Extension. But little work had been done upon these claims although the vein had been uncovered in two places disclosing it to be nearly three feet wide. I learn that work will be prosecuted both by this and the Combs' Company during the winter upon their respective claims.

The next eastern extension embraces four hundred feet and is known as the Morehead Company. Distinct traces of the vein had been found on these claims and the claimants were actively employed in opening up the vein when I left. They will also push forward the work of extracting the ore during the winter. The next extension embraces four hundred feet and is known as the Clark and Heath claims. No distinct trace of the vein had been discovered here, though the parties were vigorously employed in prospecting for it, and with a fair show of success. This last extension terminates at the base of the mountain near Meadow Creek. A company of eight or nine have located eastward from the last extension across the creek and a spur of the mountain, between the creek and Salmon river, as far as to Salmon river. Croppings have been found from the vein on the spur, but no openings made to uncover the vein. No traces of the vein have yet been found on the south side of the river.

The prospecting upon this vein by the different companies has resulted in uncovering it at intervals for a distance of nearly four thousand feet, and disclosing its width, at an average depth of less than six feet from the surface, to vary from eight inches to three feet, it being the widest near the base of the mountain. The locations eastward from the Florence company are nearly all well situated for extracting the ore at comparatively small cost, and the transferring of the ore to the bank of Meadow Creek will become easy, the waters of which creek never fall below a thousand inches at its lowest stage and so precipitous is the stream, that for a distance of two miles from its mouth a fall of twenty feet may be had in every 200 yards. This water right is claimed and owned by two of the members of the Nez Perce company, and the Florence Gulch and Silver Mining company and will be converted by them to use in propelling quartz mills. I have no doubt that from 800 to 1,000 tons of ore will be extracted by the different companies from the Liddle & Harper's lead before the first of June, and if the ore which has already been extracted may be taken as a fair index of what remains to be taken out the average yield of that 800 or 1,000 tons will not fall short of $[illegible] per ton. This may be regarded as a small but a good beginning for quartz in Florence.

Sufficient is already known to warrant the erection of two good ten stamp mills to be in readiness for working by the first of July next, with almost a certainty of having constant employment in crushing and reducing the ore from that time forward. The general feeling of the companies is to extract the ore in quantities such as to induce capitalists from outside to bring in mills and do merchants work in crushing and reducing.

Of the other leads, I will speak in a subsequent letter. The assays from the North Idaho have proved the best of the others so far.

FROM BLACKFOOT.

The latest advices from Montana report the emigration constantly arriving there from every quarter.

New discoveries had been made near French Town, north of Hellgate river, also on Rock Creek rising in the divide between the Bitter Root and Deer Lodge valleys.

Goods were still commanding good prices, though not all the miners who had money, had laid by in their cabins full winter's supplies. The merchants are now wholly dependent upon the floating population in making sales.

The latest arrival dates from Florence Oct. 26th. The snow on the Coeur d'Alene Mountains had fallen to the depth of 18 inches. Trains and travelers were avoiding the mountains and going via the Lakes. The express went by the [illegible] Fork trail and will return that way, which is expected here the first of next week.

Yours, LELAND.

Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age,

and as an

Alterative and Blood Purifier

They are prescribed and recommended by all Physicians wherever they have been introduced.

The extraordinary and increasing demand for these BITTERS is unparalleled.

In the History of Medicine,

And can be had everywhere throughout the civilized world where newspapers are circulated or read.

Almanacs or Pamphlets,

With testimony of their success from the Farmer and the Sailor—from the Merchant and the Physician, and from the Legislative Halls of may be obtained FREE of all Dealers everywhere.

Governor Gibbs The Special Session The Statesman Nesmith Harding Party Factionists at Work

We invite the attention of members of the Union party throughout the State, to the following [illegible] the [illegible] State Journal on the new party now organizing [illegible] in the interests [illegible] of the State [illegible] political [illegible]

[illegible]

The Democrats say they only want their rights under the Constitution, but they [illegible] over the Constitution. [illegible] The rebels [illegible] through the Constitution [illegible] wrong, but their chances are [illegible] rebels.

What kind of a party is that [illegible] the [illegible] Salem [illegible] Another [illegible] Statesman [illegible] suffrage. We have written against [illegible] and [illegible] Democrats [illegible] is laboring to [illegible] to be the old Union and Copperhead parties, which were to be left out in the cold. Who would this new party [illegible] made up of "half and half" [illegible] in the various State and county offices [illegible] will not save you. [illegible] thing, and some persons manifest their [illegible] alarming extent by drawing all they can [illegible] Government and continually clamoring [illegible] [illegible] just as good money, too, as ever paid honest debts [illegible] sentimental, and is a nice bait to catch a portion of the Union party, while [illegible] opposition to negro suffrage [illegible] question here as the man in the [illegible] out to catch the Copperheads, in the process of [illegible] that victorious party which is to leave out the prominent men on both sides, and give the highest place of honor to a man who in time of need was neither hot nor cold, and the lower seats to his favorites. The extreme loyalty on the one hand is only assumed to cover up Copperhead designs and advance Copperhead interests in another direction. If the programme can be carried out both parties will be cheated and the will of the people will be thwarted by strategy.

STOP THAT COUGH!—'Tis strange that so many persons otherwise intelligent, will allow a cough or cold to remain day after day, when for 50 cents they can get a bottle of HALL'S PULMONARY BALSAM that will surely relieve it. It is sold by all Druggists.

DANGER OF DELAY.—Don't be deceived; that apparently trifling and persistent hacking cough, portends something serious. Consumption stares you in the face. Be wise then and check it at once, by a free use of Newell's Pulmonary syrup.

Go to A. D. Shelby's Boot and Shoe Store if you want a pair of nice boots made to order. Nov. 1, tf

Hall's Arctic Expedition.

The great sea will not give up its dead until the last day, but an intrepid and persevering American seems likely to wrest from the Arctic ice a secret which it has preserved for many years, and against the efforts of many searchers.

Captain C. F. Hall writes to Mr. Grinnell an account he has received of four of Sir John Franklin's men, one of whom he seems satisfied was Captain Crozier, the successor of Franklin in command of the expedition. Three of these men appear to have been alive in 1854, eleven years ago, and seven years after their shipwreck. Captain Hall sailed from New London on the 1st of June, 1864. His letter, lately published in the Herald, was written on the 10th of December following. He had then but fairly begun his explorations, and as he was equipped for a stay of from 24 to 36 months, there is every reason to believe that, unless some untoward accident interferes, he will follow to its end the decisive clue he had gained last December, six months ago, and lay bare the mystery which has hitherto proved impenetrable, and which defeated even Kane and McClintock.

Capt. Hall's is the exhaustive method of exploration. Before him, Arctic explorers did little more than step ashore at some point and pass a certain number of days or weeks with a people whose language they did not understand, of whose manners and customs they knew but little, and from whom they could get little trustworthy knowledge because they had not time to win their confidence. They encumbered themselves with large and well found ships, with supplies for three or four years, and with numerous crews; they set out apparently with the determination to transplant their own mode of life to the region they intended to explore. They failed because their "train," so to speak, was too cumbrous. Their ships were wedged fast in the ice; their supplies were consumed before they reached the goal of their efforts; the short summer of the far north did not give them time to make headway; they were scarcely thawed out before they were again frozen up, and in some cases a vessel was not even thawed out, but passed the long summer day in vain waiting for a "warm spell."

Doctor Kane set the example of using smaller vessels, and showed that a little schooner and a handful of men could accomplish more, and penetrate further into the frozen north than a big ship with 100 or 120 men for her crew. Captain Hall went a step further; he has no ship no crew; no European accompanies him, and a thoroughly fitted whaleboat is the only vessel he took along. His supplies consist of clothing and pemmican for himself, necessary instruments and books, and an assortment of goods to trade with the Esquimaux for food, and to pay those whom he must use to serve him. He struck out an entirely new path. Satisfied, from Kane's account and others, that Americans can live in the Arctic regions, he undertook a residence of two years among the Esquimaux to familiarize himself with their language, habits and mode of life. How courageously and thoroughly he did this, is known to the readers of his interesting book, which has attained in England even a greater fame than here, and has been read and praised all over Europe. He proved to his own satisfaction, during his first journey, that he could live in the Arctic country without unendurable sufferings; and set out upon his new attempt last year, confident that his previous experience would be of great help to him. It was his purpose, as he told us the week before he sailed, to make his home with the Esquimaux tribes, travel with them in their annual migrations, and spread everywhere the knowledge of his purpose; and he believed that he could not fail in this way to unravel the sad mystery which has defied so many efforts.

Whether Capt. Hall succeeds or fails in the effort to which he has devoted his life with a rare enthusiasm, he will have a high and honorable place amongst the most daring explorers. Simple-hearted as a child, courageous, enterprising, patient, kindly—so thoroughly good that he won the hearts of the rude Esquimaux, who everywhere hold him their true friend, and served him gladly with their goods and lives—Capt. Hall's is a rare character. He has overcome difficulties in the pursuit of his object which most men would not have attempted. He was not even a sailor; he had never seen the ocean until he determined to go upon his search. He was unknown to the public, far from wealthy, totally inexperienced in the details of water life—in short, he left his western home with only his courage and an enthusiastic purpose to achieve that which he thought could be done—to penetrate the mystery of Franklin's fate—or to perish in the attempt. May he attain all the success his heart desires.—N. Y. Post.

Measurements of the Pyramid of Geezah.

The base is 750 feet square; hight, 480 feet and 9 inches. The angle of the face is 51°50'. As the base is covered several feet above the foundation, which is on a soft calcareous rock, the base now measures on the surrounding sands but 733 feet; the hight 446 feet; being 571,536 square feet as the original size. The area is 13 acres. Boston Common is 41 acres; St. Peters, of Rome, is 632 feet long, 440½ feet extreme width of transept, and from pavement to top of cross outside, 448 feet high; outside diameter of cupola 195½ feet, inside diameter 130 feet. Bunker Hill monument is 30 feet square at the base, 15 feet at the capstone and 221 feet high. Park street steeple, Boston, is 220 feet and 6 inches in hight. The spire at Strasburg, France, is 468 feet high. St. Peters is larger than St. Pauls, London, by 93½ feet in length, 64 feet in hight to top of cross, and 61 feet external width of cupola. The diameter of the interior of the dome of the Pantheon is 3 feet more than St. Peters. The Cathedral at Milan is 443 feet long. St. Sophia, Constantinople, is 360½ feet long. The Pyramids are of solid masonry, with no cavity so far as known, except the rooms and narrow low passages before mentioned. They are all constructed after the same general model, and from the immense amount of labor and stone employed, are curious; besides, some important astronomical facts are being drawn from them.

The temples built of ponderous stones of granite, with alabaster and marble decorations, are wonderful, as indicating the genius and advancement of this people, and their ability to transport immense masses from place to place. The bas reliefs within some of the temples and tombs are executed with a fineness difficult at this time to exceed, though they lack that resemblance to nature which modern artists give.

On an obelisque, one or two, erected at Karnack 1,700 years B. C., erected by Hatasou, the sister of Thotmes, to the memory of her father, Thotmes, which is a single stone 93 feet high, and weighing probably 746,000 pounds, the inscription reads that the superior part of it is covered with gold of a pyramidal form taken from her enemies (it is not necessary to say that the gold is now non est.) Upon another part it reads that from the time of its being quarried in the mountains of Assuan to its erection was seven months.

Tin in Owyhee.—Discoveries of tin have lately been made in Owyhee which promise to be of much value. A late number of the Owyhee Avalanche thus speaks of the discovery:

In May last W. W. Williams' attention was attracted by the weight and peculiar character of what appeared to be pebbles, in Jordan creek. He selected a fine specimen as a curiosity, and carried it until some two weeks since he showed it to Thomas McDonald, an experienced assayer in Humboldt county, Nevada, who tested and pronounced it a rich specimen of "stream tin" ore. As an evidence of his faith, McDonald, James T. Meeran and W. W. Williams immediately left Humboldt for this place, where they arrived during the past week. They have prospected the creek and find the ore in large quantities, and have fully satisfied themselves that it is tin—much of it seventy five per cent. in value. They are confident that a rich lode of this important metal is near at hand. Specimens will be immediately forwarded to the State Department at Washington, to Professors Silliman and Torrey, and to the Secretary of Idaho Territory. A large bounty has been offered by the Government for the discovery of tin in the United States in workable quantities. If this is still offered, these gentlemen claim it. Specimens may be seen at this office.

Consistency.—Says the New York Tribune: We can easily test the sincerity of the Copperheads when events make it necessary to change their arguments. To read one of their newspapers one would think that their solicitude for the Constitution and the laws was their controlling and absorbing thought. Yet we find when the whim seizes them that the Constitution and the laws are readily thrown aside. One journal insists that President Johnson shall remove Governor Brownlow for what are called his "crimes" in Tennessee! Well, Brownlow is as much under Johnson's control, according to Copperhead reasoning, as Governor Parker of New Jersey. Now, suppose the President attempted to remove Parker. What a time we should have. Yet the power to make this change is just as lawful as the power to remove Brownlow. The Copperheads don't mind ox goring except when the ox happens to be theirs. Then it is dreadful.

A Southron's Threat.—We lately heard a desperate threat from a man short of funds. He said he would have money—if he had to work for it. If he had threatened to commit highway robbery or murder he could scarcely have worn an aspect of more ferocious determination. We could not doubt that he sincerely regarded labor as the last resort of a gentleman; beneath his dignity, and only excusable on the ground of absolute necessity.—Richmond Republican.

The Pyramids of Egypt.

A correspondent of the Stockton (Cal.) Independent, who has recently visited the great pyramids, furnishes that paper with the following description:

In the yet unlighted hour of the morning we straddle our donkeys, our feet being only six inches from the ground, and away we go over a level road shaded with date trees, as fast as our donkey boys can run, and in two hours from Cairo we are at the foot of the Pyramids.

The day begins to drive away the shadows of the moonlight; the bright streaks of sun mark the east. To see the rising of the sun from the top of the Pyramids is something often spoken of by those who have not traveled, and sought after by those who have. Accordingly, no time was to be lost. At the small village near the foot of the Pyramids live the guides, who are authorized to take you to the top of the Pyramids. These fellows, of magnificent proportions, athletic, are modelles of physical humanity. Arabs of the desert, they have picked up sufficient of European language to hold conversation with all who come. They are regular polyglots, with whom the ladies fall in love. Every female Eastern traveler writes or paints the portrait of the handsome naked Arab who helped her to mount the pyramid. As they paid me a left sided compliment by saying, "Your legs are too short; you eat too much feet," I am not enthusiastic.

Usually from two to three Arabs take your hands, and in less than a half hour you are on the top, where, from the removal of stones, is a space now thirty two feet square. The sun appears from the Pyramid when rising about the same as he does from other places, his toilet and personal appearance not being more complimentary to pyramid mounters than to others. The extra investment made to see the sun rise from pyramids don't pay two per cent. I pardon the people that what goes up must come down, the voyageurs after gazing with rapturous exclamations over the sandy desert to the west, and the delta of the Nile to the east, which look wonderfully like the desert plains of the San Joaquin in the summer time, and the overflowed portions of the same river as spread in the west of Stockton. After enthusiastically going into the classics and Orient into poetry, they descend wiser and more fatigued than before the ascent, often with more experience and lost or damaged wardrobe.

After the ascent and descent, both of which are wonderfully easy, you must do the matter thoroughly by going into the bowels of the monster. You accordingly put yourself into the form of C, F, or S, according to your flexibility, and preceded by your Arab with a lighted candle, you descend at an angle of twenty seven degrees a passage of about five feet in height and four feet in breadth. The passage is of excellent masonry, square joint, dressed surface, composed of immense pieces of red granite, and extends from twenty three feet east of the center of the northern face considerably higher than the line of the pyramid (probably to be above all overflows) to the very centre or heart of the pyramid, where it terminates in a room twenty to twenty five feet square. This chamber is seventy two feet above the line of foundation, 408 feet below the original summit, and seventy-one feet below the floor of the King's chamber. The use of this chamber is not settled by savants, but believed by some to be used for the brother of the builder and cotemporary ruler. Returning to the passage there is found branching off from its upper surface, eighty feet from its northern entrance, a gallery or passage which ascends at the same angle as the other descends, 26°, 41'; you follow this and enter a horizontal passage once closed by four portcullis of granite, sliding in grooves of the same kind of stone which stopped and concealed the chamber. This apartment is the principal one in the pyramid, and is thirty-four feet long, seventeen feet seven inches broad, nineteen feet two inches high, the roof being flat, the stones extending across the top; above this are two small unfinished chambers, evidently to take the pressure off this roof. The room contains a sarcophagus of red granite three feet high, seven feet four inches long, and three feet broad, being only three inches less than the door it entered. This is cut out in the centre to accommodate with comfort a man of ordinary size. There is another room of smaller size above this, the approach to which is from a similar branching off from the way which led to the King's chamber. This smaller chamber is supposed to have been for the eternal repose of the Queen. But here, as in the King's sarcophagus, there is not a bone to be found, the probability being that Mr. and Mrs. Cheops or Khofou are pretty effectually scattered.

CONSTRUCTION.

The stones of which the great pyramid is formed on the outside are not all of the same size, being about two and a half feet thick, from three to six feet long, and three to five feet wide. These layers are horizontal, except the passage before mentioned, and are placed so that the upper layer are within the under, presenting a stair-like appearance. These steps have been filled by marble, presenting a cone of uniform and polished surface. The top of next to the largest pyramid has remaining still parts of the marble finish which probably inclosed the whole of the two great pyramids. The building of mosques and residences in Cairo has robbed the pyramids of nearly all the marble which has once ornamented them. The rock of which the pyramids are mostly composed is a fossil lime-stone of which mountains exist to the back of Cairo, not more than six or eight miles from the pyramids, and from which the stones were probably quarried.

THEIR ANTIQUITY—WHEN WAS THE WORLD CREATED?

Napoleon should have said sixty centuries contemplated you; instead of "Soldats, quarante siecles vous contemplent"—"Soldiers, forty centuries contemplate you." When you take notice that the rocks of which the pyramids are composed are entirely formed of the lime of animals that lived and died in the sea, that the mountains from which those are quarried is several hundred feet thick, and composed entirely of those dead marine animals, you must refer to the time to which the creation of animal life occurred to a period incomprehensible to mortal mind. It is also certain no deluge has occurred since the time of Menes before mentioned, as there is no information or reference to it on the stones of Egypt or scrolls of papyrus. By reference to the researches of Mariette and others, you will find all important historical or physical phenomena affecting Egypt, have been accurately recorded. It is not likely a deluge as described by the Old Testament, would be omitted by Egyptian writers.

A General's Mistake.—General Samuel McGowan, of Abbeville (S. C.), having had his fill of fighting to dissolve the Union, now proposes to come to Congress and help reconstruct it. In his address to the voters of his district he takes care to let them know that he does not regret his, and that they must not regret their share in the rebellion. Says the General:

"In some respects, we are at the beginning of our policy, as if we were a new State about to assume new relations with our sister States; but we must never allow ourselves to forget that in other respects we are an old State—a State having antecedents, a name to maintain and history to preserve. Whatever may betide us in the uncertain future, the past, at least, is secure. South Carolina has never swerved from the path of honor, as she conceived it. We have a record of which none need be ashamed; and when any apostate son of hers disclaims or disparages it, may she cast him out as unworthy of her. The devotion of every true son of the State adheres in adversity as well as in prosperity—is loyal through evil as well as through good report; and in the midst of the greatest misfortunes 'sticketh closer than a brother.'

"After the delegations from the Southern States shall have been received into Congress, many delicate and important duties will devolve upon them, especially in reference to the freedmen of the South, and the control which Congress, or a party in Congress, may desire still to exercise over them. It may not be improper in this connection to say that, while I have approved the course of the State in seeking to restore her old relations with the Government of the United States, it has been upon the faith and expectation that the State, as soon as reconstructed, is to have entire control of the whole subject of domestic affairs. The State, and the State alone must be left to decide to whom she will give the right of suffrage or other political rights. A new code also must be enacted to protect and govern the population lately made free—to prevent idleness, vagrancy, pauperism and crime. I am not prophet enough to foresee whether we can succeed, but I solemnly believe it will be impossible to live in the country at all unless the State has exclusive control of the whole subject. I have hope that this will be permitted, and I think it is in accordance with our interests and true policy to sustain the President and the Democratic party in their efforts to restore the States to their position of equality and to give them equal rights in the Government."

Such men as General McGowan and their numerous legion allow themselves to be reconstructed, after a fashion, into Unionists, for the sole, unaccepted purpose of getting their freedmen once more into their clutches. "The State, and the State alone," they insist, is to have exclusive control over the matter. But this is not in accordance with the spirit, nor even the letter of the Constitutional Amendment, which invests Congress with the right and duty of preventing the re-establishment of slavery. That duty will be performed.—N. Y. Tribune, October 10th.

Grant and Stanton.—The following is an extract from General D. E. Sickel's address on the opening of the American Institute Fair, New York City:

Success was invariably exacted from commanders of armies; neither winter nor summer, neither heat nor cold, neither storm nor drouth, neither distances nor defences, nor but feet superiority of numbers, spared the enemy from attack. At length the events of the war developed a General whose genius, educated by experience, as was said of Marlborough by Bolingbroke, matured all the attainments for supreme command. This great and fortunate leader was no sooner recognized than called to the head of all the Armies of the Union, and from that hour General Grant directed without interference, but with invaluable energy of co-operation from the War Department, all the succeeding campaigns to a triumphant conclusion. Look back to the period of despair, during the first year of President Lincoln's Administration, when leading journals demanded a Dictator; recall despondency which followed the disastrous termination of the Peninsular campaign, in the summer of 1862; remember the general discontent and weariness of the struggle which preceded the repulse of the enemy at Gettysburg; the profound despondency and just indignation felt by the country at the failure to pursue and destroy the army of Lee; the riotous menaces and the outbreaks which hindered the enforcement of the conscription law; the bloody riots in this city; the undisguised hostility of half of Europe; the discouraging doubts and predictions of nearly all the world; and, finally, the increasing power and boldness of the formidable conspirators at home who pronounced the war a failure, counseled an armistice, and advised the acceptance of the best terms of peace that could be obtained.

It was at this moment that Grant's decisive victory at Vicksburg was announced. Soon after he was summoned by the Secretary of War, in person, to Chattanooga to retrieve the disaster of Chickamauga. Gaining the great victory of Mission Ridge, and opening a pathway to the sea for Sherman, he came to the Rappahannock and brought fortune and triumph to the glorious standards of the army of the Potomac. What Godolphin and Marlborough were to the war of succession, what Louvois and Turenne were to the great struggle of Louis XIV. for European empire, what Carnot and Bonaparte were to the wars of the French Republic, what Pitt and Wellington were to the European alliance against Napoleon, Stanton and Grant have been to the grandest struggle of ancient or modern times for the maintenance of authority, order and justice in the government of nations.

The great war from which the nation is now reposing, has made the institution of all the States homogeneous. It has removed from our plan of government the element that was most impairing to its vigor—insufficient power to suppress an insurrection sanctioned by the government of a State. It has banished from our civilization the reproach of servile labor, thus elevating to the rank of freemen all whose honorable toil supports in peace the Commonwealth whose honor and rights they uphold in war. Besides the renown won by the renown of our arms, the amplitude of the resources we have displayed, and the constancy we have shown in the conflict, we shall emerge from one of the most exhausting wars recorded in history a stronger nation than we have ever been."

The Sober Second Thought.—At the close of the war, while the people of the rebellious States were still in doubt as to the line of policy that would be pursued towards them by the Government, a variety of schemes were set on foot among our Southern citizens for emigration to other regions, where they would not be subjected to the rule of their "conquerors." They expected to be treated with great severity, and believed their condition was hopeless under this Government. Among the plans seriously entertained for escaping from the penalties that they anticipated, was the Brazilian emigration scheme. But the disturbances in that country, which is now engaged in an extensive war, have served to delay, at least, for a time emigration thitherward, and it is stated on very good authority that the whole project had been given up. The views of the intending emigrants have no doubt undergone a very great change since it has been seen that the Government does not seek to impose any penalties on the people of the South as a class. With this assurance, and with the brightening prospects of the South, the people of that section, after giving the subject due consideration have doubtless come to the conclusion that it is not well to take the risk of finding a better government to live under elsewhere. A few mad spirits rushed off to Mexico during the first flush of their disappointment at the smash up of the confederacy, some of whom will doubtless find congenial occupations in that country and remain there. A few others put their linen and outraged feelings in their carpet bags and went to Europe. They will be coming back one of these days.—Cor. Bulletin.

Heavy German Emigration Expected.—They New York Herald has a letter from Berlin, in which the writer states that there is no diminuation or desire on the part of the Germans to emigrate to America, and predicts that there will be no falling off in the number arriving on the shores of the United States for a long time. It has been thought that new Germanies were to arise in Chile, on River Platte, in Brazil, and in Australia, but the authorities directing these movements have given it up in despair, in view of the all absorbing attractions which America impresses on the imagination and interest of the Germans. The Bremen Company have ordered two new steamers to meet the increasing emigration, and both lines will soon reduce the fares. Other lines are reported as about to be established.

The Head of Dante.—An Englishman who writes from Ravenna, Italy, thus describes the head of Dante, as found among his recently discovered bones:

The head was finely formed, and as the remains of the poet lay in state, on Sunday, the 25th of June, within the glass urn, under the chapel of Bracciforte, previous to their interment on the following day in the marble urn from whence they had been so secretly abstracted, the cranium, which was slightly raised, showed by its ample and exquisite form that it had held the brain of no ordinary man. It was the most intellectually developed head that I ever remember to have seen.

U. S. Marshal's Notice.

U. S. of America, District of Oregon—ss.

WHEREAS, a libel has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, on the 11th day of November, A. D. 1865, by [illegible] and W. W. Page, Esq., Proctors for on behalf of [illegible] McCormick, libellant, against the barque Helen W. Almy, her tackle, apparel and furniture, alleging in substance that on or about the 24th day of October, A. D. 1865, said barque or vessel Helen W. Almy, whereof [illegible] was master, then lying in the port of San Francisco, and designed on a voyage to the port of Portland, the said libellant being owner of 22 cases of merchandise, of the value of seven thousand dollars, made a contract with the master of said barque, through his agents, to carry said merchandise to the port of Portland, Oregon, in good order and condition, and to deliver the same to said libellant; that on said voyage, said merchandise has been wetted and greatly damaged, so that the same was wholly ruined, [illegible] to the libellant to his damage in the amount aforesaid, and praying process against the said barque Helen W. Almy and that the same may be disposed of according to the prayer of said libellant.

Now therefore in pursuance of the warrant under the seal of said Court to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said barque Helen W. Almy, her tackle, apparel and furniture, or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court, to be held in the City of Portland on Monday the fourth day of December next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and to make their allegations in that behalf.

WM. H. BENNETT,
U. S. Marshal for Oregon.
Dated, Nov. 9, 1865. nov10d14t

U. S. Marshal's Notice.

U. S. of America, District of Oregon—ss.

WHEREAS, a libel has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, on the 2d day of October, A. D. 1865, by J. N. Dolph, Esq., Attorney of the United States for the District of Oregon, on behalf of the United States against the "Steamship Orizaba, her tackle, apparel and furniture," alleging in substance that said steamship Orizaba, on the 30th day of October, A. D. 1865, being then on her voyage from the port of Portland to the port of San Francisco, in the Columbia river, below Astoria, and within the Collection District of Oregon, received a quantity of goods, wares and merchandise, which were there unladen from the steamship Active, owned in whole or part by citizens of the United States, and being then on her voyage from the port of Victoria, in Vancouver's Island, a foreign port to the port of Portland, in the United States, and which said goods, &c., were brought and imported from said foreign port and unladen as aforesaid, out of said steamship Active before the said steamship Active had arrived at the proper place to discharge her cargo, or had been authorized by the proper officer or officers of the Customs to unlade the same, and praying process against the said steamship Orizaba, and the same be declared forfeited to the United States of America.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the Warrant under the Seal of said Court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming the said steamship Orizaba, her tackle, apparel and furniture, or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court to be held in the city of Portland on Monday, the 4th day of December, next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and make their allegations in that behalf.

Dated November 9, 1865. WM. H. BENNETT,
U. S. Marshal for Oregon.

U. S. Marshal's Notice.

U. S. of America, District of Oregon—ss.

WHEREAS a libel has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, on the 28th day of October, A. D. 1865, by J. N. Dolph, Esq., Attorney of the United States, for the District of Oregon, on behalf of the United States, against the steamship Active, her tackle, apparel and furniture, alleging in substance that on the 30th day of October, A. D. 1865, the said steamship Active, a vessel owned in whole or part by citizens of the United States, being then on her voyage from the port of Victoria in the Island of Vancouver, the same being a foreign port, was laden with and imported from the said foreign port, into the United States, a large quantity of goods, wares and merchandise, and after the arrival of the said steamship Active so laden with goods as aforesaid, in the Columbia river, below the port of Astoria, and within the collection District of Oregon, a large part of said goods, wares and merchandise were unladen out of said steamship Active for the purpose of being put and received on board of the steamship Orizaba, then on her voyage from the port of Portland to the port of San Francisco, before the said steamship Active had arrived at the proper place to discharge her cargo, or had been authorized by the proper officer or officers of the Customs to unlade the same, and praying process against the said steamship Active and that the same be declared forfeited to the United States of America.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the Warrant under the Seal of said Court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming the said steamship Active her tackle, apparel and furniture, or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court to be held in the city of Portland on Monday, the 4th day of December, next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and make their allegations in that behalf.

Dated, November 9th, 1865. WM. H. BENNETT,
U. S. Marshal for Oregon.

ALLEN'S
LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,
Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS AT tended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
